

The Road to Excellence

Pacific Capital Resource Group's 2-year internship Program

Created for university students beginning their junior year, Pacific Capital's The Road to Excellence program gives participants an opportunity unlike any other. Through this intensive two-year program, participants learn the skills it takes to launch a successful career in the lucrative financial advising industry. Participants are placed on a team of peers and guided through the program by a successful, seasoned financial advisor. The first year of the program is spent learning the integral role of back-office duties and the procedures which ensure a smooth-running practice. During this first year, participants will be assigned to an advisor at Pacific Capital to assist with financial analysis, client relations, marketing, and administrative duties. It is during the second year that participants will learn the skills necessary to begin their own successful financial advising career. Through training in sales, education in financial products & services, and practice management, participants will be well on their way to a successful future, whether or not they wish to look towards Pacific Capital for their new career.
